

Pale points show individual observations; dark points and vertical intervals show model-predicted means with 95% confidence